inspiring solutions

On April 4th and 5th in New York City, inspired women and men came together to seek solutions to advancing women and girls at the Women in the World Summit. Presented by Newsweek Daily Beast and hosted by its editor-in-chief Tina Brown, this intimate and impactful gathering centered on vivid storytelling and live journalism. From CEOs and world leaders, to grassroots activists and firebrand dissidents, the Summit brought to light the incredible stories of women and girls, looking at both their challenges and triumphs, and inspiring solutions to women's issues. Held at Lincoln Center, the 4th annual Summit welcomed over 2,500 attendees from all over the world – and we were there!
